ARTIST STATEMENT

Thomas Hart Benton once said, "painting is a great field if you can make it past the first 30 years." Well, I've made it, and although it's a daily struggle, painting is my life's passion.

As a painter, I draw my inspirations from every day life. I will paint anything (still lifes, city streets, seascapes, portraits, nudes, animals, interiors) that will hold still long enough for me to capture.

My perceptions about life continuously change as I paint. Every painting I do is a chance for me to explore the small things in life that I don't notice. And, more importantly, it's a way for me to discover myself.
